Dear Jim,

Thank you for your correspondence re the Wetlands Conference - unfortunately I shall be away for two weeks at least from the 16th - going to Victoria to visit some National Parks & Woodchipping etc. I would have attended your Conference otherwise. We (the Conservation Society) do not meet until the 30th Thursday (18th) but I will see your letter is in correspondence.

I have called on the Fisheries Inspector, his name is Hein Sturmann, c/- Fisheries office, no. 14 John St. Port Mac. phone 831102. He will come provided he is not posted on duty that day - he was quite enthusiastic as he is having great problems here with Mangrove areas. I mentioned your need for someone to collect Dr. P. Adam, & he said he would, provided he can get there himself.

I have just phoned Hugh Viner's surgery; he is away for 2 weeks holiday & will not be back until 16th September; his secretary does not know anything about the Conference, but I've set the wheels in motion at our Environment Centre for ~~someone~~ one to contact me & I'll see what they know. Best wishes for a good Conference.

Yours sincerely

Phyl Linte (Hon. Secretary)

Dear Hugh,

Here with a couple of briefs
about the ~~coming~~ Council conference.
Would you arrange to photo copy the number you require for distribution and charge this Council.

The Target audience is speakers, parents,
and local councillors.

Would you be prepared to chair the panel discussion at the conclusion of formal papers 2.30 - 3.30? All speakers would be invited onto the panel and I've also asked if DEP might also have someone on the panel.

Dear Mr. Tedder,

Re: Wetlands Conference at Yarrahapinni Ecological Centre, Grassy Head
on Sunday, 28th September, 1986

Thank you for your letter of 26th July, 1986 inviting me to address your Conference. I note also that you have written to the Division of Fisheries and I would suggest that if a spokesperson from the Division is available I would be more than willing to share the time slot.

Thank you for your offer to meet travelling expenses and accommodation but on this occasion the Department has agreed to meet my expenses.

I have suggested that the Division of Fisheries contact you direct regarding their involvement in the programme.

f.a. Mr Bob Smith

Dear Mr Smith,

Please refer to our telephone discussion concerning the wetlands conference being organised by this Council.

We are most grateful that you will be available as a speaker.

The one day conference will take place on Sunday 28 September at the Yarrakapinni Ecology Centre Gyrogy Head.

The object of the conference is to discuss in general terms the position now of coastal wetlands. Are they enough protected? Is protection adequate? What are the continuing threats? Are they really as important as some people claim?

We suggest that your paper would examine the view of the Fisheries Service as to the present stock of wetlands and their role in the commercial and recreational fishing industries.

It is suggested that you speak in your paper for twenty minutes and allow ten minutes for questions. Facilities exist for slide presentation. The last hour of the conference will involve a panel discussion and question and answer session.

Speakers are Bob Lamb Executive Officer NSW Professional Fishermen Assoc Mr L Nolan Chief Planner Kungahy Council, Dr Paul Adam School of Botany University of NSW and Elizabeth Smith of BEACON Byron Bay.

We cannot offer a speaking fee but can meet travelling expenses and if required, accommodation.

A program will be forwarded later

Dear Mr Tedder,

Thank you for your letter of 2 July 1986 which arrived just as I returned from a year overseas. I would very much like to attend your conference if it is at all possible, especially as I was unable to do so last year.

Wetlands remain very much in fashion and I had already agreed to speak at two meetings arranged by the National Trust and T.E.C., one on the north coast on 13 September and the other at Batemans Bay on 27 September. The question then arises as to whether I can get to the area on time. It seems that there are remarkably few flights to either Port Macquarie or Kempsey any time on a Sunday, let alone early in the morning. At the moment the best bet appears to be a flight from Newcastle to Port Macquarie (arriving 9.30 a.m.), which would involve catching the last train from Sydney on Saturday night. Are you able to suggest any more convenient way?

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr Nolan,

Our Council which represents conservation bodies on the North Coast is holding a one day conference Sunday 28 September at the Yarrakapini Ecology Centre Grassy Head to assess the position of wetlands / estuaries.

We are inviting representatives of fishing organisations, Fisheries Division and others to present papers to assess the present position in the protection of wetlands and estuaries.

We would very much appreciate if you could find time to present a paper on

- role of local government in protecting wetlands
- problems of management
- value of wetlands from L.G. viewpoint
- wetland and development.

Other matters thought relevant.
 Speaking to your paper would occupy
 20 minutes with 10 minutes of questions.
 Facilities exist for slides.

We cannot afford a fee but could meet your travel expenses.

Dear Elizabeth,

Our wetlands stock take conference is due 28 September - the day after the AGM. It is too late to wait until 2 Aug to discuss how the conference should run so Terry & I have started planning and have approached

Dr Paul Adams - Pottery V. of NSW

Dr Margaret Middleton - Fisheries Research

Bob Lamb - Sec Professional Fishermen's Assoc

T. Nolan - Kempsey Shire Planner

to give papers

Would you give a paper for the visiting conservation bodies examining

- adequacy of SEPP No 14
- adequacy of local Govt Env. Plans
- threats seen to wetlands
- where expansion of protected areas is needed
- management problems
- role of conservation bodies in protection of wetlands

Time limit 20 minute to speak to paper - slides if possible

Dear Mr Lamb,

Our Council which represents various conservation bodies on the North Coast is holding a one day conference Sunday 28 September at Yarrabopinni Ecology Centre Grassy Head to assess the wetland/estuarine situation.

We are inviting representatives of Local Government, Amateur fishermen, Tourist organisations to present papers to assess the present position of coastal wetlands and their value.

We would very much appreciate if you could find time to present a paper. We cannot afford a fee but can meet travel expenses and provide accommodation if needed, at the Centre.

The information we would be seeking in your paper would be

- how do professional fishermen view wetlands/pollution
- are there enough areas protected
- are the wetlands valued highly enough
- how do fishermen view other types of protection
- what role can the various authorities and citizens play in wetland protection
- and other matters which you consider relevant

Yours sincerely

Dear Dr Adams,

Our Council aims to hold a one day conference Sunday 28 September at the Yarrhapinni Ecology Centre Grassy Head to assess the Wetlands Situation.

We would very much appreciate if you could find time to present a paper. We cannot offer a fee but would meet your travel costs and can provide accommodation at the Centre.

The information we would be seeking in your paper would be

- what has been protected in coastal wetlands
- the value of the areas in SEPP No 14
- is it significant?
- methods of management
- criteria for selecting

The aim of the conference will be to influence locals and particularly local government as to the importance of wetlands in the total environment.

We shall be seeking speakers from Professional fishermen, Fisheries Division, Local government.

Mrs M. Middleton
Fisheries Division

Dear Mrs Middleton,

Our Council aims to hold a one day conference, Sunday 28 September at the Yennahapinni Ecology Centre Grassy Head to assess the wetland situation. Our Council represents most of the conservation and environmental bodies on the North Coast and is hoping to influence local government and others in the value of coastal wetlands to the total environment.

We would very much appreciate if you could find time to present a paper. We cannot afford a fee but would meet your travel costs and can provide accommodation at the Centre.

The information we would be seeking in your paper is the role of wetlands fresh and saline to the spawning industry - both professional and recreational

 The State Environmental Planning Policy No 14 has given protection to some areas. Are these sufficient to maintain fishing stocks? What could threaten the wetlands? How do they provide for the fishing industry? Should more be done? How can local government assist in protection.

We are inviting representatives from professional as well as amateur fishing groups, and local government to attend and address the conference with an aim to attract as wide an audience as possible.

From the editor's desk...

Greetings and welcome!

It is with excitement and enthusiasm that we bring you this first issue. FORSPA, an acronym for Forestry Research Support Program for the Asia-Pacific, represents a concept. It is an idea embodying cooperative forestry research with a future vision and ensuing transfer of technology from the realm of the researcher to the terrain of the field worker.

The concerned international agencies have set a tone by their collaborative venture. The Food & Agriculture Organization [FAO] is coordinating this program. The Asian Development Bank [ADB] and the United Nations Development Program [UNDP] are providing the vital finances. C.A.B International [CABI] is implementing the information constituent -- the kingpin of any research or decision-making process.

FORSPA aims to achieve a part of what the new Center for International Forestry Research [CIFOR] will be attempting at an international level. A breakthrough in the process of implementing regionally relevant collaborative strategic research may, at present, be a small step for FORSPA, but it is in the right direction and it has an immense potential. The Asia-Pacific is an exemplary region to initiate this creative undertaking. It is unique not only because it contains a quarter of the world's tropical forest resources, but it is also the only region to have an FAO Standing Committee on Forestry Research.

What is FORSPA's mission? Our view and initial approach to its implementation are outlined in this issue. We will regularly bring you information on research results, forestry policies, new projects, and of course, on our activities. However, a project such as FORSPA cannot exist in isolation without any feedback from its readers. We would very much like to hear from you. Please tell us your views about FORSPA's strategic goals. How can we achieve them effectively and efficiently? We are waiting to hear from you.

UNDP

FORSPA: A Need for Commitment

Just when we are comfortable about our knowledge of nature and natural forces, along come humbling unexpected events. Mount Pinatubo's eruption and the eventuality of global cooling manifests two important lessons. Principally, we cannot take nature for granted and, secondarily, natural influences anywhere in the world have global implications.

The eruption of El Chichon, a Mexican volcano, in 1982 had worldwide effects. The average surface temperatures dropped by approximately 0.1-0.3 of a degree centigrade. More recently, the haze spreading through Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore, Brunei, and southern Thailand was the result of forest fires in Kalimantan and forest clearings in Northern Sumatra.

The land we have is held in trust for our children. The concern about its sustainable utilization consequently extends to the entire international community. The forests are inseparable from the land and therefore from humankind. Talking about any one of them in isolation is meaningless.

FAO estimates that 17 million hectares of forest, out of a total global forest area of approximately four billion hectares, are disappearing annually. The causes are numerous and, at times, imperceptible from the effects. The forest loss is translating into increased desertification, declining tropical rainforests, and increasing poverty, to name a few scourges. Never has the linkage of forests to mankind been so clearly felt and never has it been considered under a greater threat.

However, the threat is not yet a siege. A new awareness is apparent. New ideas, new concepts, and new attitudes are germinating. The message of synergetic existence, which nature has been persistently giving us, is finally being put into practice. It is manifesting itself in increasing international, social, and economic integration.

The choice of theme for the recently concluded 10th World Forestry Congress hosted by France from September 17 to 26, 1991, viz "Forests, A Heritage for the Future," supports this conviction. It emphasizes a dual commitment from us: a fundamental obligation to foster international cooperation to protect this threatened resource and a promise to pass it on, with our positive contributions, to future generations.

FORSPA is a symbol of our commitment. It is a new and an innovative project to develop a Forestry Research Network for the Asia-Pacific region. We hope that it will assist in focusing the attention of foresters, policy makers, donors, and the international community in building up adequate facilities and an environment to improve the capacity, capability, and productivity of forestry research institutions.

INFORM'S Efforts Result in FORSPA

Strengthening of national forestry research capabilities in the region is a top priority of the FAO Regional Office for Asia & the Pacific [RAPA] in Bangkok. Among the recent initiatives, an Expert Consultation of the Forestry Research Directors was held at RAPA, Bangkok from August 22-25, 1989 and INFORM resulted.

INFORM...Informal Network of Forestry Research Managers of the Asia-Pacific Region conceptualised and recommended the formation of FORSPA. ADB and UNDP, acknowledging the merit of the project, promised funding support. Although FORSPA was conceived then, it took persistent effort by all members and institutions over the interim years for the idea to manifest itself in the present form.

Agreements Formalized

ADB signed two separate agreements. Besides a Technical Assistance Agreement with FAO for implementation of FORSPA, a separate three-year pact for strengthening the information component of the project was signed with CAB International [CABI]. It shows the importance attached by ADB to access to scientific and technical information for strengthening national forestry research in the region. CABI has been disseminating information in support of forestry for over 50 years. It will fulfill its commitments under the guidance of the FORSPA Advisory Group and FAO.

The FORSPA Advisory Group consists of ten members: five members drawn from the Developing Member Countries as agreed between ADB and FAO, and one representative each from ADB, CABI, FAO, International Union of Forestry Research Organizations [IUFRO], and UNDP.

Implementation of FORSPA

The primary objective of FORSPA is to strengthen national forestry research in the Asia-Pacific region. FORSPA wishes to work very closely with all the existing forestry networks and the donor agencies. Periodic seminars and workshops on selected topics will be organized with the assistance of UNDP and ADB to which all concerned participants will be invited. This will ensure a complementarity in the research effort by researchers, donors, and networks. Furthermore, a collaborative research effort in the region will assure long-term sustainability of FORSPA.

As a starting point FORSPA therefore proposes to:

- identify major forestry research problems of common concern in the region.
- formulate, fund, and implement appropriate research projects to resolve these issues.
- develop, promote, and sustain closer interaction among the participating research institutions and with their international counterparts.
- assist in the preparation and dissemination of research information.

• CABI's Role

The last objective defines the terms of reference for CABI. CABI, under the guidance of the FORSPA Advisory Group, will attempt to strengthen forestry research information capabilities in the region by:

- providing access and training to the participating institutions in the use of forestry bibliographic databases.
- preparing an inventory of unpublished data and research findings by collating information from disparate sources. This information will then be disseminated to different categories of users through monographs.

- repackaging appropriate research findings for easy access by policy makers, legislators, and rural administrators.
- Publish a quarterly newsletter.

In improving regional information capabilities, CABI will provide Forestry Abstracts for the three year period (1991-93) to twenty selected forestry research institutes in the Asia-Pacific region. The selected institutes will be notified individually.

Additionally, CD-ROM facilities with the required hardware, software, and TREECD (see box) will be installed at ten selected research institutions in the region. Comprehensive training, covering such areas as computer hardware and software, CD-ROM technology, setting up a CD-ROM work station, searching TREECD, etc., will also be provided to representatives of the institutions receiving this facility.

FORSPA Developments: The Advisory Group Meets

The Advisory Group, chaired by Dr. Salleh Mohamed Nor, met for the first time on 5-6 September, 1991 in Bangkok. Dr. Y.S. Rao, Regional Forestry Officer, RAPA, was unanimously chosen as the first FORSPA programme advisor for an initial period of three years.

The Group affirmed that FORSPA will strive to embrace all aspects of forestry research including education and extension. It will make an effort to prepare "Handbooks for Field Workers" in local languages to enable the transfer of technology from the laboratory to the field. Special attention will be directed to meet the forestry research needs of South Pacific countries.

The success of FORSPA is contingent on the participating governments. Their direct support for the regional programme is equal in importance to their policy level assistance for forestry research and extension in their respective individual countries.

The involvement of developed countries in the region can be an important link in building appropriate structures for promoting forestry research. FORSPA will consequently seek the participation of these nations both as potential donors and as beneficiaries of regional cooperation.

• Document Delivery

Having identified relevant items, either by searching the compact disc or current journal issues, researchers then need access to the original documents. CABI will provide a limited number of photocopies of relevant articles on demand. Urgently required items will be faxed on request.

TREECD: New CAB SPECTRUM Compact Disc

A pilot issue of CABI's Forestry CD-ROM, called the TREECD, was demonstrated at the tenth International Forestry Congress in September 1991. It is soon to be marketed by CABI. It will be an answer to the prayers of researchers in forestry and allied fields. TREECD contains all of the bibliographic citations and abstracts published in Forestry Abstracts from 1939 to 1990. Additionally, it includes all of the Forest Product Abstracts and Agroforestry Abstracts from their respective beginnings in 1978 and 1988. 300,000 abstracts for the fifty year period - what more could one ask for!! For more information, contact the editor.

Collaborative Forestry Research Projects: Call for Proposals

The FORSPA secretariat has invited proposals from all forest research institutes, universities, and other institutions engaged in forestry and related research, in the region. The following five areas have been designated as priorities for research.

• Upland Watershed Management

The proposals should focus on sustainable land-use options which integrate forestry, agriculture, and energy related interventions. Alternatives which will enable upland dwellers to maximize land productivity on a sustained basis and simultaneously minimize erosion and downstream damage need to be explored.

FORSPA is emphasizing subjects related to systems approaches in studying interlinkages between upstream and downstream activities, improved techniques and management of shifting cultivation, and economics of watershed management -- particularly the valuation of externalities and social costs pertaining to this ecosystem.

• Reforestation of Degraded Lands & Problem Soils

The selected proposals will bear on effective strategies and techniques for improved productivity of degraded lands and problem soils.

FORSPA stresses biotechnology research to develop, introduce, and manage plant species adapted to impaired lands, bad-lands, and soils. FORSPA also wishes to encourage research on topics related to management of common property regimes, policy reforms, and socio-economic changes essential to promote and adopt suitable technologies to make these lands productive.

• Conservation of Ecosystems & Biological Diversity Maintenance

FORSPA is keen to fund project proposals relating to conservation of tropical forestry ecosystems. The topics may vary from an economic analysis of conservation, timber pricing, techniques and strategies of buffer zone management, to policies of nonwood forest products, land tenure, agriculture settlement, and industrial development.

• Improving the Sustainability of Plantation Forestry

Much research is required to examine the sustainability of intensive plantation forestry. FORSPA wishes to promote topics studying the potential contribution of plantation forestry in conserving natural forests and in fostering national development. Related topics may address questions of species-site specificity, ecology and monoculture, and rapid propagation of commercially valuable species.

FORSPA also emphasizes research on lesser known species. The topics include issues of new technologies, wood engineering, and wood preservation.

Finally, the national policy options and incentives, and financial mechanisms affecting the plantation forests are considered an imperative for research in the area.

• Promotion of Community Participation in Forestry Development

Research issues pertaining to land tenure policies are as important as the study of incentives and mechanisms for securing community participation in forestry.

Priority is also accorded to subjects concerning national government policies, and the role of private sector and institutions in stimulating community action for tree growing and nature conservation.

Wish to attend an international seminar?

FORSPA will fund a selected number of scientists from participating research institutes in the Asia-Pacific region to attend "International Meetings." Requests should be routed through respective institutions. Thank you, UNDP, for making this possible.

Please contact the FORSPA Program Advisor for more information:

Criteria for Selecting Projects for Funding

FORSPA, per se, is fostering regional cooperative research. Consequently, "task forces" consisting of specialists drawn from the participating research institutes in each of the above areas will scrutinize and evaluate the proposals carefully.

The FORSPA secretariat has received nominations of distinguished scientists from different research institutes in the region.

The project briefs will be reviewed at the next meeting of the FORSPA Advisory Group on 23 January 1992. Evaluations of the proposals will be partly based on:

- nature of the shared problems
- common features of research methodology to be used
- mechanics for sustaining interaction [regional, national, etc] amongst cooperating researchers
- monitoring mechanisms

FORSPA SECRETARIAT

A secretariat has been established in the FAO Regional office for Asia and the Pacific, Bangkok. It is headed by Dr. Y.S. Rao, the first Program Advisor. He is assisted by Ms. Julia Roetzer, Associate Professional Officer [APO]. We eagerly await the joining of another APO.

FORSPA Logo?

FAO Regional Office and the Asia Regional Office of CAB International sponsored a contest in Bangkok and Kuala Lumpur respectively for the FORSPA logo with a prize of US$ 400. 18 entries have been received. All of the entries are commendable and the final choice will be difficult. The FORSPA Advisory Group will decide the winning logo during the January 1992 meeting in Kuala Lumpur. The selected logo will be displayed on the front page of subsequent newsletters. We are very grateful to all the participants for their time and effort.

- sharing of research findings and mechanics of communicating them to the final users.

The above list is only indicative and not prescriptive. The details of the procedure for screening, review, and appraisal of the proposals will be brought to you in the next issue.

FORSPA Pre-Implementation Seminar

The Pre-Implementation seminar is being held at the Forest Research Institute, Kepong, Malaysia from January 21-23, 1992. The Advisory Group will be meeting on January 23.

The purpose of the seminar is to interact with representatives of forestry research institutes, participants from regional networks, and donor agencies, and to seek guidance for the proposed workplan of FORSPA.

The participants will provide guidelines for the FORSPA secretariat on implementation procedures for funding research proposals, disseminating information in the region, and for conducting Regional Seminars and Workshops.

Directory of Forestry Research Professionals in Asia-Pacific

FAO Regional Office is preparing a computerized database of forest research professionals and research managers in the Asia-Pacific region.

About 1500 questionnaires were mailed to different forestry research institutions in the entire region. The information requested pertained, inter alia, to the nature of current research, important publications, languages spoken, area of expertise, and specialization. So far, 772 researchers from 78 different institutions have replied.

If you are interested in being registered with the regional forestry researcher database, please contact Ms. Julia Roetzer, Associate Professional Officer, in the FORSPA secretariat

Grey Literature?

The entire collection of reference material in the Forestry section of FAO Regional Office is being organized as a bibliographic database. About 1000 references have already been catalogued.

Procedures are being worked out to make this literature accessible to the researchers. Dissemination through Mongraphs is an effective option. Other suggestions are invited.

Asian Forest Plantation Pest Management

Although pest management is an important element of tropical forestry development, it has been under-emphasized and under-resourced. Lately, the appearance of new pests in Asian forestry, both exotic and from local habitats, has reiterated an increased need

STOP PRESS!

The leucaena psyllid, Heteropsylla cubana, has reached Africa. It was recently spotted by the Department of Agriculture, Mauritius.

for forestry pest management expertise. Such a need has also been highlighted at the IUFRO/FAO Regional Office sponsored meeting on Pest and Diseases of Forest Plantations in the Asia-Pacific Region.

In order to seek effective sustainable management procedures for tackling the problem of forest pests and to explore the potential of regional cooperation on the issue, FAO Regional Office has signed a special services agreement with CABI. CABI will carry out a comprehensive literature review and document the present status of forest exotic plantation pest management in the region.

CABI's Dr. Roger Day, who has extensive experience in pest management in the region, visited the forestry research institutes in India, Malaysia, Philippines, and Sri Lanka. Two different CABI country survey teams have collected similar information in Indonesia and Thailand respectively.

A report on the present activities in pest management, the existing strength of staffing and resources, economic damage caused by pests, additional resources required, and the potential to realize these needs through international coordination of research will soon be submitted by CABI. Furthermore, the report will prioritize pests and needs with respect to their identification, assessment, control and recommendations for strengthening of national programs. We will keep you posted.

Congrats! Dr. Salleh

Datuk Dr. Salleh Mohamed Nor, Director General of Forest Research Institute, Malaysia has added another feather to his cap. He was recently awarded the Langkawi Award by the Malaysian government for his outstanding contribution to the environment.

In August 1991, he was awarded the Third World Network of Scientific Organizations Award for his exceptional achievements in the field of science.

International Forestry Research Institute Renamed

Center for International Forestry Research [CIFOR] was selected as the new name for the international organization undertaking forestry research within the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research [CGIAR].

CIFOR emerged as the final choice in a competition held at the International Centers' week in October 1991. Its selection was based on euphony, no implied restrictions in the operation of the international organization, and clarity. Other suggested acronyms varied from CIN-FUL to ISREF.

We will miss him!

We recently lost Dr. Tho Yow Pong, a renowned entomologist from the Forest Research Institute, Malaysia [FRIM], to cancer. He was 46.

A zoologist by training, Dr. Tho's interests covered a wide range of subjects from forest succession, insect and plant diversity, to nature conservation.

He was awarded the IUFRO's Award for Scientific Achievement in 1986 and FRIM's Award for Excellent Service in 1982.

A naturalist at heart, Yow Pong has had a crab, a palm, and two insects named after him in appreciation of his assistance in new discoveries.

His outgoing personality, positive outlook, and pleasant disposition will be greatly missed.

THE Republican

January 21, 1997

Dear President/Secretary,

The Republican, a new Australian weekly newspaper, will be officially launched in March. It is supported by a group of small Australian publishers, with Sybil Nolan, formerly of Melbourne's, Age, as the Editor.

A section of The Republican will be specifically devoted to the concerns of local community groups. Individuals are invited to use the newspaper as a forum to express their concerns about local issues. Therefore, we invite your organisation to register with The Republican to be eligible to write in, and provide us with local information and comment.

We also appeal to your cooperation and ask that the enclosed subscription form be photocopied and distributed among your members, should they want to subscribe.

The Republican will be generally sympathetic to environmental issues and will help draw national attention to these issues that are important at a community level. Ever-present environmental concerns affecting Australians, such as water quality, management of intractable waste, and air pollution will be thrown open for discussion.

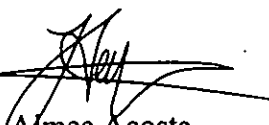

We believe there is a genuine interest in communities around Australia, be they urban, regional, or rural.

To express interest, please complete and send the attached form to :

2. SEPP Summary

- all wetlands subject to some form of modification
- prematurely ageing from sediment acc.
- regimes are changing - fear nutrient wetlands probably don't
- natural sinks - must protect catchment protection
- no rules of thumb for buffer zones.
- know very little about hydrological regimes → difficult to know what measures are needed to protect.

Methods of management

- why is management necessary
- can increase diversity & quantity - but can lose wetland types
- private ownership - 60% private, who will manage? Do we pay & how?
- rehabilitation
- to decide priorities as funds will be short

Criteria for selection

- vast bulk of dune wetlands in NP
- very poor rep. of tidal & salt marsh & floodplain in NP
- geomorphologically / vegetative
- need booklet to illustrate wetlands

Geographic spread

- Specific attributes - rare plants / animals
- very little idea of why some wetlands are so important

Manageability

Dear Miss Arrogante,

We have completed our audit of the books and records of your Association for the year ended 31 March, 1986 and submit herewith:

- (i) Income & Expenditure Statement

(With Two Copies)
- (ii) Copy of each of

Accounts Payable Schedule
for your working papers.

We confirm our discussion with you regarding the nature of the "Contract" payments to:

Executive Director
Administrative Officer
Membership Services Officer

and stress that your Association should carefully check its responsibilities and, indeed, liabilities under Income Tax Legislation for deduction of, and accounting for tax instalments under the P.A.Y.E. system.

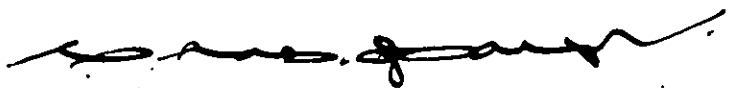

The requirements of that legislation are widely encompassing and non-compliance by an employer now carries substantially increased penalties.

It is not easy to contract out of those responsibilities and liabilities.

As indicated to you we will no longer be able to offer our services as auditors of your Association, due to imminent changed circumstances in our practise.

We submit herewith our Memorandum of Fees.

Yours faithfully,
CHAS. J. SAYER & CO.

growth forests are not going to be ready for cutting for twenty or so years .The Forestry Commission has failed to face up to the coming crisis and they are hoping that the old growth forests will tide them over until the re-growth forests are ready. Already the Forestry Commission has admitted that the old growth forest they had cut on the Bulga contained less timber than they calculated. If more of their calculations are wrong then the loss of timber and jobs will occur faster than they have bargained for. In any case hard wood from native forests is being steadily supplemented by plantation timbers and that is the way it should have gone years ago.

So before you mutter about the " unwashed rent-a-crowd"of protesters chaining themselves to bull dozers who appear on your TV screen just ask what you are doing to make Governments keep to their promise of saving old growth forests. You can help with letters to the Premier ,donations to Green Appeal , telling your friends about the real situation or even turning up at a blockade.

Dear Jim

We refer to your letter dated 24th June, 1997 in relation to a celebration to mark the 20th year of the North Coast Environment Council which was discussed at our meeting on the 21st July, 1997.

Unfortunately, there was not a great response from members in relation to a dinner or dinner/dance and it was generally felt that a weekend camp would attract more members. However, it was realised that this would not be possible with guests arriving from Sydney.

Therefore, it was decided to inform you that, unfortunately, there was not a great response from members of this Branch and it is hoped that in whatever way the celebration takes place that it is a success.

Yours sincerely,

This year the council celebrates twenty years of working for a better environment on the North Coast.

The Council has forty-five member bodies between the Great Lakes and the Tweed and east from the New England highway. It deals with issues of regional significance but also contributes to the debate on State and National issues.

We invite you and your partner to join our twentieth birthday party being held at the Coffs Harbour Surf Life Saving Club off Ocean Parade commencing at 6.00 PM.

Would you please send any money for tickets to our treasurer Peter Wrightson PO Box 91 Maclean 2463.

Dear Member

Arrangements are well in hand for the 20th birthday celebrations, to be held on the 15th November at the Coffs Harbour Surf Life Saving Club off Ocean Parade.

Enclosed are tickets number      to      . As you will note the cost is either $20 or $30 self select. People pay what they can afford.

Will you please sell these and return the money to the treasurer Peter Wrightson PO Box 91 Maclean 2463.

The more sold at $30 the more likelihood that the event will not cost the Council money. If you require more tickets please phone 02 65690802. Please inform me by 1 November how many tickets you have sold.

Yours Sincerely.

Dear Mark,

Re: Your Letters to Premier Carr and Ministers Yeadon headed National Park Proposals and Aboriginal Land Claims in the Sydney Region.

I received copies of your carefully written letters, dated 18 December, just before Christmas with considerable surprise. Particularly so because I had previously raised with you my concern about your earlier letter to Minister Yeadon dated 10 August, and about which I had had no knowledge when an NPA delegation met with him only a few days later on a range of matters.

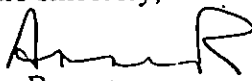

Furthermore, as you know, a process was set up at NPA's November Council meeting to consider the implications of the Otford Declaration, the outcome of our 1994 conference organised jointly with the NSW Land Council with assistance from a National Estate Programme grant. A Working Party was established, convened by Tom Fink as my nominee, with up to two representatives of our four State Council Committees (Park Management, Reserves, Biodiversity and Young NPA), to report back with recommendations on action to State Council after consideration of the issues involved and any submissions received from members and Branches.

The points made in your correspondence would have been appropriately submitted to Tom Fink for consideration of this working party, expressing as they do your personal understanding and perspective of both specific and more general issues. I am therefore forwarding a copy to Tom Fink.

I am providing Helen Latham as the Sydney Branch Hon Secretary, with a copy of your correspondence, so that the Branch can be made aware of the situation.

I am also writing to the Premier and Ministers Yeadon and Allen to advise them that your correspondence should be read as an expression of your personal views, since there is a process in train within the Association to address the issues of national park estate and aboriginal land claims on behalf of the Association.

Yours sincerely,

Anne Reeves

This is the 20th year of the Council. It decided we should celebrate and the following are options

1. Dinner at Park Beach Surf Club Coffs Harbour followed by a dance.
Cost approximately $ 25 per head plus $150 for hire which includes bar staff and cleaning. Can accommodate 150 persons ,pleasant outlook. Overall cost should not exceed $30 per head
Camping available in the caravan park
2. Dinner at Bellingen Old Butter Factory followed by a dance
Cost approximate $25 per head BYO but pay 50 cents for each person
Maximum number of guests 70
3. Some other place such as Yarrahapinni Ecology Centre – no liquor and difficult of access if we invite guests . Need minimum number to meet cost of accomodation.
4. Should we invite
  - a. Minister for the Environment
  - b. Shadow Minister Brad Hazard
  - c. James Johnson EDO
  - d. Tim Robertson (to give dinner speech ?)
  - e. George Negus (to attract more people ?)
  - f. John McGarity Soil scientist
  - g. ????

James Johnson EDO
Joe Oge
Gary Nehl
Peter Barrett
Harry Wood
5. Please let me have your ideas urgently as regards
  - a. dates -suggest sometime in November
  - b. venue –bearing in mind the problems of guests from Sydney attending
  - c. maximum costs
  - d. any other ideas

15 Nov
$30
6. We must have a firm commitment as to numbers of persons willing to attend otherwise we could have egg on our faces if there are more guests than people from the Council members.
7. Please treat as urgent otherwise we shall have to celebrate our 21st year instead.

Yours sincerely

FINAL GO-AHEAD FOR NORTH KIAMA BYPASS

The Minister for Urban Affairs and Planning, Craig Knowles, today announced that he had given the final go-ahead for the North Kiama Bypass.

Mr Knowles' approval enables the Roads and Traffic Authority (RTA) to determine the bypass. This will remove all planning approval barriers and the RTA will be able to program construction of the road.

In 1996 a Commission Of Inquiry found that the road could proceed on the preferred route and recommended conditions to manage the environmental impacts, including those on the Minnamurra Wetlands. Mr Knowles then approved those parts of the road which are covered by Part 4 of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act, 1979.

"The selected route as finally approved provides the best balance between the key environmental issues of impacts on the wetlands, the agricultural and scenic attributes of the Jamberoo Valley and the community," Mr Knowles said.

"In keeping with the COI's conditions of approval, the Roads and Traffic Authority will prepare an Environmental Management Plan to guide the detailed design, construction and monitoring of all aspects of the road's development and operation.

"The road will entirely bridge the Minnamurra River floodplain and wetlands. To compensate for this minimal disturbance 10 hectares of land will be regenerated as wetland, with similar vegetation.

"Water quality control measures will treat all construction and road run-off waters and direct their release away from the wetlands.

"The road design is better than that required to accommodate known and expected flooding in the Minnamurra River.

"It allows for the continued operation of agricultural enterprises and minimises the impact on prime crop and pasture land.

"Other conditions of approval include noise attenuation and landscaping," Mr Knowles said.

Birthday celebrations. Park Beach Surf Club is good venue according to De Wallace. Here is $150 and that includes bar and cleaning. Caterers offer buffet meal for $15/head for 80-100 guests. Local band has offered to play (say from 1000 p.m.) at $400. With $300 for a few free tickets and incidentals total cost is around $2500 for 80 which is $30 / head.

Have spoken to Martin, Peter, Dee as to whether this cost is OK. What are your views?

If agreeable will arrange tickets to be printed and sent to all members for sale. If leave out band could reduce to $26

James

ASSESSMENT

The six nominees vary from large groups to small from long time members to new and from long campaigns to relatively short.

The groups vary in location from north to south to inland.

Some have already achieved success (albeit temporary). Some continue to fight.

The campaigns cover coastal development, wetlands, mining and toxic chemicals.

Therefore the task for the adjudicators has been difficult.

It was decided to reward a new member group for their enthusiasm and for the ramifications of their success and so the first winner of the TOGA award for 1997 is The Scotts Head Protection group.

CAMDEN HAVEN PROTECTION SOCIETY

Long time member of NCEC with the largest membership of any NCEC group.

This group has fought a long battle to save a wetland from becoming the Dunbogan canal estate.

This long campaign has included energetic fundraising to obtain the expertise to put the conservation side at two Commissions of Enquiry with great success.

CONSERVATION OF NORTH OCEAN SHORES (CONOS)

A long time member with a small membership base who have waged a battle to save a coastal area from inappropriate development.

This area was first brought to our attention by the Byron Environment and Conservation (BEACON) group in 1983 when the Bond Corporation owned it.

A conservation order was placed over part of the land and the State Government bought a large part of the area in 1995 for a Nature Reserve.

Clearing by the developer in an important wildlife corridor keeps the group fighting as well as a Commission of Enquiry held last week.

SCOTTS HEAD PROTECTION GROUP

New member group formed to stop an inappropriate development adjacent to a proposed Nature Reserve and situated between coastal dunes and wetlands.

Direct action and legal action have been used as well as energetic fundraising to meet legal costs.

The case was won and has established a bench mark for Local government as consent authorities.

The judge found that Nambucca Shire Council failed to act as a responsible consent authority creating six breaches of the EP & A Act including not requiring a Species Impact Statement.

Dear Terry,

Thank you for the invitation to the 20th birthday party of the Council.

Unfortunately I cannot attend but please convey my congratulations to the Council for its 20 years of robust and sustained effort to protect the north coast environment.

As one of the first regional environment councils it has been an inspiration to other rural groups to regionalise and improve their advocacy resources for environment protection.

The best of luck for the next 20 years.

TIMBARRA COALITION PROTECTION GROUP

New members of NCEC from over the Dividing Range who are fighting to save a high conservation area from a gold mining development.

The State Government seems committed to allowing the mine to proceed despite the obvious environmental concerns.

Direct action and legal action are continuing.

TOXIN ACTION GROUP (TAG)

A longtime member whose expertise voices the communities' concern over chemical misuse on the North Coast.

TAG exposed the problems of cattle dip sites on the North Coast NSW.

There members represent NCEC on the National Registration Consultative Committee on Toxic chemicals and also the National Pollutant Inventory Committee.

They have campaigned over the problems of aerial spraying particularly near schools or schoolchildren waiting for school busses.

They have also produced a leaflet warning of the dangers of chemical cleaning agents used in schools.

VALLA COASTAL PROTECTION GROUP

Another new member group again fighting against an inappropriate zoning allowing an insensitive rural residential subdivision to be sited adjacent to a pristine coastal creek.

A neighbouring Shire zoned the adjacent land for environmental protection however Nambucca Shire thought otherwise.

Active fundraising has led to a successful out of court settlement with the developer withdrawing the Development Application and the group receiving costs.

3/3/92

Dear Jim,

Our Group supports the proposal to take
Court action over the Woodchip Licences.

I have to attend a meeting of the NPWS Advisory Committee on Saturday but will attend NSEC on the Sunday.

Would you please reserve a sleeping place for me
on Saturday night

Thanks

Alan Lloyd

FORESTRY

The reports of the RAC and the PAC have been very critical of the Forestry Commissions management of the State Forests but the Government seems to be taking no action to right the wrongs. In fact their actions following Chaelundi are quite the reverse. There is need to look at the whole of the timbered areas of the North Coast, collect data and then see what role each part will play in the role of protecting endangered species, of providing for a sawlog industry, of giving the scenic backdrop of the tourist industry, of protecting catchments. There needs to be emphasis on trees on farms ( see Australian Farm Journal Jan 1992 which shows how far NSW is behind and how better technology is solving problems of sawing )

LEGAL AID

The cutting of funds from the Legal Aid Commission, the alteration of membership and other measures is reducing the possibility of the community combatting ill considered development by developers, Local Government and Government departments. Though it has not been possible to obtain statistics we know of few cases where the community group has lost and in most cases society has been saved from costly ill considered schemes. It would be of interest to know how much the community has been saved by community action with legal aid.

GUARANTEEING THE ABC'S FUTURE

The base funding of the Australian Broadcasting Corporation (ABC) would be guaranteed and made inflation-proof for the next three years under proposals in discussion papers I have released today.

The papers propose the three year funding guarantee in order to provide a stable "no-cuts" period for the Government, the ABC and the community generally to reassess the role and objectives of Australia's major national broadcaster - and if necessary to reshape the ABC and its legislative Charter to enable it to better cope with a rapidly changing communications environment.

The discussion papers are not an attempt to in any way reduce the significance of the role that national broadcasting plays in Australian daily life. The Government remains firmly committed to maintaining a vibrant, strong, relevant and fearlessly independent ABC.

No final decisions on the ABC's future will be taken until after a period of wide ranging consultation and public debate.

Fundamental to any change to the ABC is the need to rethink its present legislative Charter, which is now a mish-mash of mutually inconsistent generalities giving no clear guidance to the ABC as to what it should be seeking to achieve.

The major points of the discussion paper proposals include:

- Detailed analysis of what new Charter objectives for the ABC might look like - focusing on principles of quality, diversity and national identity - and a discussion of how these might be translated (using ABT program categories for rough illustrative purposes) into indicative program priorities.

BEACON

BYRON ENVIRONMENTAL AND CONSERVATION ORGANIZATION
P.O. Box 445, Byron Bay, 2481.

The Secretary,
North Coast Environment Council.

re: Proposal to Take Court Action Over Woodchip Licences

The Secretary's letter was discussed at Beacon's meeting on 6/2/92; 25 members were present. The meeting agreed that the matter was particularly serious. As the reputation and credibility of the Council, its member groups and their representatives would be at stake, it had to be approached with great caution and required full involvement of the executive in all decisions. The following resolution was passed.

Moved Peter Hamilton, seconded Paul Brecht that Beacon support the proposal by NCEC to take legal action against the Commonwealth on the issue of woodchip licences. Support is contingent on legal advice that there is a better than 50% chance of success. In view of the cost, time and the risks for the Conservation Movement on the North Coast and the possibility that the Council will be opposed by major industry as well as the Government, court action should be seen as the last recourse. Therefore, advice should also be sought on the opportunities for mediation and negotiation using legal representatives. Also, all opportunities for finding an alternative principal with court standing must be exhausted.

Beacon considers that the case must be run by the Council's Executive and that all public statements and press releases must be approved by the Executive and preferably made by the President.

Beacon also requests copies (or wishes to view) the legal advice received by the Council.
